The Game Boy is an 8-bit handheld video game device developed by a game company 'Nintendo'. It was a game changer when it was released all over the world. All ages love it and it was a great success for Nintendo. Later, Game Boy Light and colour were released.

The Game Boy has only four buttons but could play many one of the hottest games at the time like 'Pokemon games', 'Super Mario Land', sports like baseball and tennis are also available. To play the game you want you can insert the game chip. There are also accessories for the Game Boy, like the sonar, used to play a fishing game, and also Super Game Boy for you to play on TV.

Now, the Game Boy is already outdated. People are working on its 5th generation which provides more games, and of course, more fun for everybody!
