Sherlock Holmes is a fictional detective created by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

At first, I was not interested in his stories because there were too many new vocabulary words. But my mother patiently read with me, and I started reading the books on my own.

One of Sherlock's greatest enemies is M Professor. Once, M Professor was sent to jail, but he was innocent. After he escaped, he ensured that the people who put him in jail were arrested. After that, he started committing crimes.

Investigating cases inspires me and teaches me many new words. What are your favourite types of books to read?
